

Table of Contents

BRINGING LEARNING TO LIFE

Principles of Ecology	6
Growing a rural network	7
Four rural communities join together	8
What is a Network? Tools for Teachers	9
Our Bioregion: A unifying theme	12
Community profiles	13
Community coordinators are resource brokers	15
Project-Based Learning Tools for Teachers	17
The local environment as an integrative context for learning	18

SHARING OUR STORIES

Anderson Valley
Collecting stories worth retelling	21
Student advice for great interviews	22
Young historians in training	23
Point Arena
Finding Lester and the old photographs	24
Laytonville
Listening to the elders' stories	25
Our Town a model of main street	26
Myself, My family and my community	27
Mendocino
Teaching for understanding links school and community Tools for Teachers	28
Kwan-tai temple	29
Rural Artists and Artisans Documentation	33
Service learning: taking active roles in the community Tools for Teachers	35
Six A's of designing projects Tools for Teachers	36

DEVELOPING A SENSE OF PLACE

North Coast: Cycle of the Year	38
Mendocino
Students create a tidepool brochure	40
A systems view of the tidepool	41
Point Arena
Building the Bluff Trail	42
The Yosemite Experience	43
Using project-based learning to integrate curriculum Tools for Teachers	44
Laytonville
Earth Stewards and vermicomposting	47
A systems view of the school garden	50
Mapping Your Bioregion Rubric Tools for Teachers	52
Point Arena
Student research models the Garcia River	53
Mendocino
New energy for a sustainable future	55

REVITALIZING RURAL COMMUNITIES

Native Plant Nurseries	56
Will their bypass be our development?	58
Socratic Seminars: Great conversations	60
Toward the school as a community learning center	61
The emergence of a digital economy	63
The Roots of Service Tools for Teachers	64